

November 2010 Campout

At the November Campout we first went to the Nelson Art Gallery. While there we toured the Indian Exhibit. There were many interesting things there. At 11:45 we returned to Presentation and ate chili and apples. The younger scouts worked on their Indian Lore crafts. At about 4:00 we went to Blue and Gray. We finished getting our tents and cooking stuff up while it was dark. Both the patrols looked like they had good and warm food. It got really cold at the camp. While we were at campfire, Mr. Lancaster poured the ashes from the National Scout Jamboree into our fire and an unexpected visitor arrived..... a huge Labrador! At about 9:30 we all snuggled into our sleeping bags and went to sleep. In the morning we wanted to leave because it was so cold. We got all the stuff packed up and left at about 10:00. The beads for the campout were blue.

Nathan Rotert – Historian Stand-In