

November 2009 Campout

The November campout was very cold. We met at 8:00 and left at 8:30. When we got there it was flurrying a little. We had to set up the canopy first. Then we set up tents. We finally had to start a fire and cook lunch. It started to warm up before lunch at the campsite. It was warm enough to get into a jacket before we left. After lunch we went to the shooting range. We were there for about three hours. The wind was whipping through the range. We had a few scouts go to Mr. Preston's car to warm up. We shot 22's, rifles, and bb guns. After that we went back to the campsite. We got in warm clothes and started to cook dinner. We went to bed around 9:30. We woke up and had hot chocolate ready to drink. We cooked breakfast and packed up. I left to go to the scuba dive thing at YMCA. It was warm in the facility and pool. We had to wear wet suits and all the scuba gear. We learned the basics of scuba diving and played with a torpedo toy under water. The other people who didn't go scuba diving broke down camp packed everything up and left.

By:

Historian Eric Reeb